O&A MARKETING NEWS –

O&A is an abbreviated form for Oil and Automotive Service Marketing News. It is a property of KAL Publications Inc. Editor/Publisher: Kathy Laderman. Administrator: Karen Laderman. Advertising Sales: Victoria Kemsley, Becky Jones.

PUBLISHER’S EDITORIAL STATEMENT –

The O&A Marketing News, first published in 1967, is a newsmagazine whose editorial focus is the marketing segment of the petroleum industry in the 13 Western United States. Stories and photos published in the O&A are primarily about the people and companies involved in supplying and marketing of petroleum products and transportation fuels. Our coverage also includes the alternative fuel, carwash, quick lube, and convenience store industries – businesses commonly associated with retail fueling operations – and trends that impact the Western marketplace.

Our 4,000-plus readers occupy all sectors of the industry: gasoline station, carwash, convenience store owners and operators, petroleum wholesalers, equipment manufacturers and distributors, contracting and service companies, major oil companies and more.

Prominent features of the paper include:

- Newsbeat Column – A personal interest column telling who is doing what in the industry.
- Gallon Report – Summary of taxable gallons of gasoline sold in the Western states.
- State Columns – Articles submitted by writers from across the West.
- Photographs – Quite possibly the most extensive photo coverage of industry meetings, trade shows, and conventions in the West.

All these features combine to provide a unique insider’s look at the industry we cover.
